WHAT THE MODERN LIBRARY HAS DONE

~and IS Doing for Intelligent Readers

THE Modern Library, over a period of seven years, has gathered together the finest works of the greatest modern authors. Sherwood Anderson, Kipling, Anatole France, Dreiser, Shaw, Oscar Wilde, Cabell, and scores of others, equally famous, are represented.

One hundred and twenty-six titles are now in the Library. A new one is added each month. A glance at the list of authors and titles tells all that any intelligent book-lover needs to be told about the quality of reading in the Modern Library. The price of each volume is only 95c. Even if these books were printed on the cheapest paper, and bound in inexpensive cardboard, the value would be great. But each Modern Library volume is printed on high grade antique book paper, hand bound in limp cloth. Each volume is complete, yet printed in large, clear, new type. Never in the history of publishing, has there been such an opportunity to secure works which have made their place in literature, in so beautiful a format, at so low a price.

Below is the list of titles. Here you will find books you have always wanted to read. Check these and get them at your bookstore while the thought is in your mind. Every bookstore of standing in the United States and Canada carries the Modern Library, but we will gladly supply you direct if you are unable to obtain your choice locally.

As the Chicago Daily News said, "You could stand before a stack of these books, shut your eyes and pick out the right one every time." Why not select half a dozen now? You will need no urging to continue collecting this fine series of worth-while books.
